

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

An electronic manual search system is provided which can search topics in the manual in descending order of reference frequency of topic. The system stores reference numbers of the topics in the past for each topic, using the reference numbers, searches the topics in descending order of the reference number of topic and displays the search result in the order when search process is performed.